Are you sacrificing your future on the altar

“The vast majority of people today cross the line of sexual sin long before they’re married. I call it premarital adultery because when you commit sexual sin today, you’re cheating on the person you’re going to marry later. By choosing to live outside of God’s standards today, you’re conditioning yourself to be even more susceptible to failure later.”

[Craig Groeschel, Weird, 153]

According to the Journal of Psychology and Christianity, up to 65% of husbands and 55% of wives will commit adultery by the age of 40.
